BLACK MESA CATTLEWOMEN

est. 1951

WHO ARE WE?

The Black Mesa Cattle Women are based out of the Crawford and North Fork Valley region. We are a group of local women sharing a passion for the beef and agriculture industries by daily promotion and education throughout the community while sustaining the western way of life since 1951.

HISTORY

The Black Mesa CowBelles was formed in 1951 by wives of area cattlemen who held forest permits for grazing their cattle on Black Mesa. They originally served as an auxiliary arm of these permittees attending stock grower meetings and organizing social events. Over the past 70 years we have evolved into a beef promotion and education organization. This evolution also involved a name change to Black Mesa CattleWomen, in order to more accurately reflect our mission with much less restrictive membership requirements. Anyone 18 or older wishing to promote beef and educate students and the public with factual information about the beef industry is welcome to join the organization.
